Hi both
I've deleted the current page on nano particles and infant formula and we need to draft a new one in anticipation of the release of the story. Until the story breaks it will be back pocket only.
Could one of you/both make a start and I'll finesse. Having looked at the MO brief I think you should just be able to cobble a piece together from that.
The page will start something like:
FSANZ is aware of media reports about nano-size particles Australian infant formula. We have examined the test results provided by the University of .... On behalf of Friends of the Earth and consulted with experts on our expert advisory panel.
Cheers
