Subject: Labelling of all GM foods

Our family is absolutely disgusted that FSAANZ would just comply with corporate demands and not label foods with any GM content. Isn't your organisation there to protect the public from unsafe, untested, unnatural food products that have done massive harm to laboratory animals, in the few feeding studies that have been done overseas ? Independent studies showed up cancer, organ damage and infertility in some animals.

What are we now, a captive laboratory for giant corporations whose only agenda is to have an expensive unnatural, patented food supply ? How can FSAANZ support such a disgraceful attack on our natural sources of food ? We demand that all genetically-modified content in food sold to the public, is LABELLED so we can make an informed choice about what we eat.

We along with hundreds of thousands of Australians have studied this vile GM industry for many years, and the lies and cover-ups of "giant biotech" are appalling. The government must know that this is the situation it is dealing with, so why is it not standing up to these ruthless corporations who do not care what damage they do, as long as they make billions of dollars ? The fact that Monsanto is on the record as stating that even it doesn't know how far cross-contamination of GM organisms with the natural environment, could go, should have been enough to not allow such a risk !
