To whom it may concern,

I remember when growing up, as a young kid we lived on the edge of the city and used go out to a farm and get fresh milk straight from the cows. It was so delicious, we kids used try to be the first one at the breakfast table to be able to pour the cream off the top onto our porridge. Since becoming an adult, I've come to really dislike milk, the taste and what it does to my body, so now I no longer consume cow milk.

Recently I've found out about the whole pasteurised milk issues and how it really distroys a lot of the beneficial aspects of milk.

I feel an appropriate analogy would be with fruit and pasteurisation is like only allowing fruit to be sold in cans, no fresh fruit allowed.

Please allow raw milk to be produced and sold, the people of Australia deserve to be given the choice.

Thanks
