Subject: Submission on A1193 Irradiation of all fresh fruit and vegetables

I would like to prevent the irradiation of more fresh fruit and vegetables where possible.

Our fruit and veg already have quite a low nutrient value. Australian (I'm not sure about New Zealand) soil is known worldwide for its lack of important minerals and vitamins as it is. Our crops may look beautiful, but they are already nutritionally deficient and we don't need to contribute more to this by introducing more harsh processes into their journey.

Thanks,
