Subject: Submission on A1193 Irradiation of all fresh fruit and vegetables

Dear Sir/Madam

I feel alarmed that the QLD government plans to mandate that all fresh fruit and vegetables be irradiated. Although our family lives in WA, we do have access to some QLD produce which we enjoy very much. At a time when more and more people are becoming allergic to many diverse fresh foods (particularly young children), choosing foods that are safe for them is difficult enough. With irradiation, the task of buying previously “safe” foods for them would be made very very difficult indeed, as the products used for irradiation purposes would make food different to before. Less healthy in my opinion. Please let common sense and concern for everyone’s health prevail. We need to get back to healthier food. Irradiation in my opinion, does not make food healthier. It would make food different and would harm a lot of people.

Humbly,
