In regards to: Application A1256 - Colour of pregnancy warning labels for corrugated cardboard packaging

I am in support of the application for the following reasons:

- The application is a practical one that is to address the technical issues around post printing onto corrugated card.
- The technical issue means that there is a margin of error when printing in three colours as per the current regulations, this application is to redce any margin of erroe
- The application to print in one colour and incorporating a 25% increase in size reduces the risk of variance in printing the pregnancy warning, and therefore reduces the risk of this being difficult to read and improves effectiveness.
- We support this application as it is in favour of ensuring continued effectiveness of the pregnancy warning label

Yours sincerely
