Hello, I was told that there is legislation around how alcoholic beverages should be labeled for pregnant women. I've recently moved here from America and was shocked that there is controversy here around whether or not alcohol has an adverse affect on unborn fetuses. I would like there to be a label on every bottle advising against pregnant women from drinking alcohol. I would also like there to be public warnings against pregnant women drinking. The harm that is caused to the unborn children outweighs any revenue lost from the alcohol industry.

Alcohol is ruining this country from within. Please don't let this industry harm the next generation of Australians.

Thanks,
Chris Brugh
