Submission Text:	I think given exceedingly low risk to humans and the benefit to farmers, Transporters, Harvesters, Food Manufacturers , Packaging and ultimately health conscious consumers, Also and importantly, when it pollinates, Low THC males will hybridize with any illegally grown psychoactive varieties in its vicinity and hopefully render the illegal drug trade as useless or at least with a reduced potency product to market. Why this was not done years ago is beyond me. Hemp seed (LTHC) should be included as an edible seed and or oil for human consumption. The plant itself has so many good reasons and benefits and a long history of human consumption and use. And will create new marketing opportunities and products for chefs like me to create. have a great day Phillip Kemp
