Allow manufacture and sale of raw milk cheeses.

Hygienic practices are important but banning natural whole milk sale and beautiful cheeses made from natural whole milk is not protecting health. In a world where cigarettes are readily available, how can you argue for total ban instead of just following hygienic practices in line with the associated risks.

Over regulation and legislation is not helpful. Careful consideration with regard for total health and information to help consumers make informed decisions are more than enough to protect us from the risks we take when when we ingest anything.

So much research has discovered natural organic foods are more nutritionally dense and provide real health benefits to everyone including cancer sufferers. MOre people want more natural local food all over the world

God, got it right when he made it.

Thanks & Regards
